Section A – The Views, interests and aspirations of the child and their parents, or of the young person

A1 All about me – The child / young person’s views

This section should be completed by the child either independently or with support. It can be completed as text or visually (eg. Mind map, photos) and must represent the views of the child / young person. Any method can be used to gather this.

This should support the ‘Tell Us Once’ approach and only need to be updated as situations change in the future and the plan is reviewed.

This section completed/updated on:

Things I like doing and am good at

This should include things both at home and at school

This must be the child’s views. It can be supported in discussion with a key worker or family member but should not be a list of what others think should be known. There is space to do this later. A2 has particular space for the family to detail what they see the child liking and being good at.

It can be done visually or a written bullet pointed list and should be established through discussion and interaction with the child.

It should cover hobbies, activities, things they enjoy doing such as particular subjects and areas of learning.

It should be updated regularly as the plan is reviewed and the child’s views change

What I need help with / what is not working and I want to change

This should cover anything that the child feels they need help with. The parent or school may recognise the need for help and support but if the child does not then it should be included later.

For very young / non-verbal children, consideration should be given as to how this can be established through visual prompts, things the child refuses to do or finds difficult

What and who is important to me now

This should cover people and activities that are important currently. Future plans should be completed in the next question.

Again it should be the child's views and can be gathered in a range of ways depending on the abilities of the child to communicate.

My hopes and dreams for the future – My aspirations

This will vary depending on age. There is no right or wrong answer. The child's aspiration is important in setting future outcomes.

Depending on the ability of the child different approaches will be needed to support the child completing this section

Has this section been completed independently?
If not who has helped complete it?	If completed with support detail who has helped

A2 All about my child – The families' views

This section should be completed by the family either independently or with support from a key worker. Where the plan relates to a young person over 16, the young person must also be involved in completing it. It can be completed as text or visually (eg. Mind map, photos).

This should support the 'Tell Us Once' approach and only need to be updated as situations change in the future and the plan is reviewed.

This section completed/updated on:

Childname's journey so far My child's history and important information about their background
Parents should be supported to give a brief history to the child from birth onwards. Those supporting this should consider that this should give enough detail to be able to prevent further lengthy discussion about the past. They should also be aware that for many parents this may be a difficult thing to do. Areas to consider are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The early years – how did the child hit key milestones, what did the parent feel about the child's progress? • Areas of concern – what areas of concern did the parent have and when did they develop? • Growing older – how has the child changed as they have grown? • What advice has the parent had previously? Who from?
Important information you need to know about childname (eg. Medical diagnosis, home situation)
Parents may wish to state clear points about diagnosis or areas of concern. This may include details around the home and the impact on the home or history
What childname likes and is good at

Parents should consider what they feel that the child likes and what they recognise the child is good at. This may differ from section A1 (child's views) as parents will recognise particular areas that the child may not or may not be able to communicate about.

What the childname needs help with

This should consider what they need to learn, to play, to keep healthy, to be independent and to prepare for the future and adult life

The family views of what the child needs help with. The family should consider areas that the child struggles with including practical skills such as feeding or movement and developmental skills such as communication and behaviours.

This must consider the needs of the child to learn, play, keep healthy, be independent and areas that will restrict their ability in the future to engage with adult life

What we would like to change or be different in the future

This should detail the parents views of what they want to be different

How best to communicate with childname

Consideration should be given as to how best to communicate. This may include use of languages such as Makaton or could be in regards to the child needing to be in a quiet space, away from others. It may also detail the sorts of language to be used, such as being very factual and direct, or questions to be used.

Our hopes and dreams for the future – our aspirations for childname

You may wish to consider areas such as education, employment and independence

This will vary depending on age. There is no right or wrong answer. The families aspiration for their child is important in setting future outcomes.

It may be very difficult for the family to see beyond the immediate issues and so support may need to be given to help them to identify what is important for them in the future and what they would like their child to be able to do. Thought should also be given to the fact that this may be a very difficult thing for the parent to do.

Section B – The child or young person’s special educational needs (SEN)

This section should describe the child / young person’s Educational Strengths and Needs. It should include details of what the child/young person enjoys. It should detail any impact on learning. It should provide information from the education setting with support from advisory services.

This section completed/updated on:

For each area consideration should be given to educational strengths. This will come directly from the education setting but can also be taken from reports of services involved in the child, such as EPS and CIAT
What childname needs help with (Needs)
As with strengths, the educational needs can come directly from the education settings as well as from services reports.
This area should cover how the child learns, what they are good at and struggle with. Areas they have particular needs in their learning. It should also cover details of how and in what areas they are making / not making progress. It should include attitude to learning; areas such as attendance, friendship, what the child enjoys and does not enjoy, what they excel and struggle at. cumulative and added to on an annual basis.

Please detail and additional information you feel is relevant in regards to attainment

A table can be copied here. As the national curriculum has changed and potentially changes in future it will be difficult to have common levels, however, details of how they are progressing should in particular focus around literacy and numeracy at early years and be broadened as the child grows older. If there is a drop in levels details should be given to ensure that this is clear and accurate.

If the results are with support this should be clearly indicated

Outcome: Number: Put number order here	Outcomes must detail what will be different and what impact this will have on the child's life and future. Appendix 2 – My Support Plan Review Record for Childname

The SEND Code of Practice 2014, 6.65 states that ‘where a pupil is receiving SEN support, schools should talk to parents regularly to set clear outcomes and review progress towards them, discuss the activities and support that will help achieve them, and identify the responsibilities of the parent, the pupil and the school. Schools should meet parents at least three times each year.’

A My Support Plan should be reviewed three times each year with the child and their family to consider any changes in needs, provision or outcomes. It should focus on the progress being made towards outcomes and to address the child's needs.

Where those involved in supporting the child feel that progress is not being made and that further resources are needed to meet their SEN, a review meeting should be held and the completed My Support Plan, with all supporting documentation, should be sent to the Local Authority to request a statutory assessment of SEN.

An Education Health and Care Plan must be reviewed at least on an annual basis, or sooner if required. The Annual Review process includes a meeting with the family and child and the issuing of any amendments to the Education, Health and Care plan. It should also consider any changes in needs, provision or outcomes as well as discussing any personal budget.

All records of interim reviews and documents completed within the Annual Review cycle should be included and discussed as part of the Annual Review Meeting.

Schools and education providers should use the following appendices to assist the review of provision.

Agreed Actions following Review

You should record any actions that people supporting the child / young person and their family need to undertake following the meeting. It should be used as a starting point to assess progress in future meetings

Who?	What will they do?	By when?	How will this improve things?
Professional, though can also be the parent or child (though numbers for the family should be limited or be clear about how they will be supported)	Detail any specific actions to be done	Date to be done by	What will the impact of this be?

Appendix 4 – Review – Child and Family Contribution

The following can be used to gather the family and young person views prior to the review. This should be discussed with the family alongside any updated views in regards to section A2. This should then be discussed as part of any review, however education providers may choose to use alternative formats for person centred approaches to obtaining the child and their families views. The same areas should, however, be addressed.

Where appropriate children and families should be supported to discuss and complete their contribution. This should form a central part of the Review Meeting.

What have been the highlights in the past year?
Prior to any annual review parents should be supported to give their views of what has changed and what is going well/ not going well. As part of this A2 must be considered and updates made.
Specific events / developments should be included here
Were the outcomes agreed in the last plan met? Did they make a difference?
Although the parent doesn't need to detail all of them, they should give their views on if they have been met and the difference this has made
Were the actions agreed in the last plan completed? Did they work?
Although the parent doesn't need to detail all of them, they should give their views on if they have been met and the difference this has made
What support is working well?
Parents should detail what is working well
